NEW YORK, May 25, 2018—Organized by the 2017–18 Curatorial Studies Fellows of the Whitney Independent Study Program (ISP), the exhibition Omnipresence explores the means by which authority is represented, understood, installed, and desired. The artworks in this exhibition turn to the banal and the everyday: sidewalk construction walls, bright white LED street lamps, road closures in the Occupied Palestinian Territories, and the communal gardens of Singapore.
Omnipresence is curated by Elisa R. Linn, Joseph Lubitz, Ellen Pavey, and Manabu Yahagi, 2017–2018 Helena Rubinstein Curatorial Fellows in the Whitney Museum of American Art Independent Study Program (ISP), with the support of Kenneth White, Curatorial Studies Faculty at the Whitney ISP. The accompanying catalogue features essays by the curators and contributions by participating artists.

Michèle Graf and Selina Grüter present their performance One against All [Uno contro tutti] on Tuesday, May 29 at 6:30 pm in the Susan and John Hess Family Gallery and Theater at the Whitney Museum of American Art

About the Whitney
The Whitney Museum of American Art, founded in 1930 by the artist and philanthropist Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney (1875–1942), houses the foremost collection of American art from the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Mrs. Whitney, an early and ardent supporter of modern American art, nurtured groundbreaking artists at a time when audiences were still largely preoccupied with the Old Masters. From her vision arose the Whitney Museum of American Art, which has been championing the most innovative art of the United States for more than eighty years. The core of the Whitney’s mission is to collect, preserve, interpret, and exhibit American art of our time and serve a wide variety of audiences in celebration of the complexity and diversity of art and culture in the United States. Through this mission and a steadfast commitment to artists themselves, the Whitney has long been a powerful force in support of modern and contemporary art and continues to help define what is innovative and influential in American art today.
