WHITNEY TO PRESENT LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION: ARTISTS’ FILMS FOR THE CINEMA, FEBRUARY 8–APRIL 1, 2007

Chrissie Iles, brings together a remarkably wide-ranging group of films made by artists for the screen, allowing us to see the many ways in which artists have interpreted the language of cinema in their own terms. The exhibition remains on view through April 1.

Since the invention of film, cinema has been an inspiration – and a subject – for artists, and moving image installations have become a major part of the language of contemporary art. In recent years, artists have also begun to produce single screen films, made to be screened in the cinema, rather than the gallery.

Some of the artists in this exhibition address the language and mythologies of Hollywood. Others construct narratives that evoke independent film. The exhibition includes classic early films by Joseph Cornell, such as Rose Hobart, Robert Frank and Alfred Leslie’s enduring Beat anthem Pull My Daisy, and Samuel Beckett’s FILM, starring Buster Keaton, as well as key narrative films of the 1960s and 1970s by Andy Warhol, Ed Ruscha, Yvonne Rainer, Babette Mangolte, Anthony McCall and Andrew Tyndall, Yoko Ono and John Lennon.

Also included are rare screenings of films by David Salle, Julian Schnabel, Robert Longo, Cindy Sherman, Larry Clark, and Rebecca Horn, who first came to prominence in the 1980s, and whose films sought to occupy both the worlds of independent and commercial cinema.

The show also features films by a generation of artists who emerged in the 1990s and developed a different approach, making both films specifically for the cinema, and installations using the moving image. In many cases, their single screen films, like those of the previous generation, are part of a larger body of works in other materials, including sculpture, photography, drawing and painting. These artists include Douglas Gordon, Tacita Dean, Matthew Barney, Sharon Lockhart, Shirin Neshat, Wilhelm Sasnal, Laurie Simmons, Johan Grimonprez, Tracey Emin, Clemens von Wedemeyer, and Isaac Julien, who began his career as an independent filmmaker. A small group of filmmakers who have influenced artists moving into film and who have also explored the gallery context – Jean-Luc Godard, Derek Jarman, Chantal Akerman, Chris Marker – are also included.

On Saturday, March 3, there will be a one-night-only screening of “Destricted” – a series of seven erotic films by acclaimed artists and directors Marina Abramovic, Matthew Barney, Marco Brambilla, Larry Clark, Gaspar Noé, Richard Prince, and Sam Taylor-Wood, commissioned by Mel Agace, Andrew Hale, and Neville Wakefield.

Artprojx NY
www.artprojx.com

In association with Lights, Camera, Action: Artists' Films for the Cinema, Mark Wallinger’s Sleeper will be presented in its New York premiere by Artprojx NY + Anthony Reynolds Gallery at the Anthology Film Archives (32 Second Avenue, at 2nd Street), February 22-24, with screenings at 10 pm each evening. For further information, visit www.artprojx.com or call David Gryn at +447711127848

The Whitney Museum is deeply grateful to Barney Rossett/Evergreen Review for making Samuel Beckett’s FILM available for this program. The complete schedule, which is subject to change, follows.

LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION: ARTISTS’ FILMS FOR THE CINEMA February 8–April 1, 2007

DAILY SCREENINGS (every Wed and Thurs, starting Thurs, Feb. 8, at 11:30AM, and every Fri at 1:30PM)

• Douglas Gordon, Feature Film, 2000, Video, color, sound; 60 minutes
• Shirin Neshat, Zarin, 2005, Super 35mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 10 minutes
• Robert Frank and Alfred Leslie, Pull My Daisy, 1959, 16mm film transferred to video, black-and-white, sound; 30 minutes

• Samuel Beckett, FILM, 1965, 16mm film transferred to video, black-and-white, silent; 21 minutes. Directed by Alan Schneider.

• Johan Grimonprez, Dial H-I-S-T-O-R-Y, 1998, Video, color, sound; 68 minutes

WEEKEND SCREENINGS

CUT February 24th and 25th 11:30 AM

• Mark Wallinger, The End, 35mm film, black-and-white, sound; 12 minutes

• Dexter Dalwood, 1800, 2006, 35mm film, color, sound; 4:15 minutes

• Clemens von Wedemeyer, Occupation, 2002, 35mm film, color, sound; 7:40 minutes

• Sharon Lockhart, Teatros Amazonas, 1999, 35mm film, color, sound; 40 minutes

• Wilhem Sasnal, Marfa, 16mm film, color, sound, 26 minutes

• Douglas Gordon, Feature Film, Video, color, sound; 60 minutes

HYPE MY LIGHT February 10th and March 17th

11:30AM Joseph Cornell, Rose Hobart, 1936, 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 19 minutes

Robert Frank and Alfred Leslie, Pull My Daisy, 1959, 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 30 minutes

2:00PM Samuel Beckett, FILM, 1965, 16mm film transferred to video, black-and-white, sound; 24 minutes Rebecca Horn, Buster’s Bedroom, 1991, 35mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 104 minutes
NARRATIVES February 24th and 25th

3:00PM Eija-Liisa Ahtila, Consolation Service, 35mm, color, sound; 23 minutes
Laurie Simmons, The Music of Regret, 2006, 35mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 40 minutes
Shirin Neshat, Zarin, 2005, Video, color, sound; 20 minutes
Tacita Dean, The Uncles, 2004, 35mm anamorphic film, color, sound; 77 minutes

MATTHEW BARNEY March 4th

11:30AM Matthew Barney, Cremaster 2, 1999, 35mm film, color, sound; 79 minutes
3:00PM Matthew Barney, Drawing Restraint 9, 2005, 35mm film, color, sound; 145 minutes

FEAR EATS THE SOUL February 11th and March 18th

11:30AM Yoko Ono and John Lennon, Rape, 1969, 16mm film, color, sound; 77 minutes
2:00PM Johan Grimonprez, Dial H-I-S-T-O-R-Y, 1998, Video, color, sound; 68 minutes
Tracey Emin, Top Spot, 2004, Video, color, sound; 63 minutes

ANDY WARHOL March 10th

11:15AM Andy Warhol, Lonesome Cowboys, 1969, 16mm film, color, sound; 109 minutes
3:30PM Andy Warhol, Poor Little Rich Girl, 1965, 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 66 minutes

ART INTO CINEMA March 11th and March 31st

11:30AM Yoko Ono and John Lennon, Apotheosis, 1970, 16mm film, color, sound; 18 minutes
Ed Ruscha, Miracle, 1975, 16mm film, color, sound; 30 minutes
1:30PM Yvonne Rainer, Lives of Performers, 1972; 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 90 minutes
3:00PM Anthony McCall and Andrew Tyndall, Argument, 1978, 16mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 84 minutes Babette Mangolte, What Maisie Knew, 1975, 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 58 minutes Bruce Conner, Luke, 2004, 8mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 22 minutes

CINEMA INTO ART March 3rd and April 1st

11:30AM Chris Marker, La Jetée, 1962, 16mm film, black-and-white, sound; 27 minutes Jean-Luc Godard, Breathless, 1960, 35mm film, black-and-white, sound; 87 minutes [Marker and Godard only on March 3rd] Chantal Akerman, Jeanne Dielman, 23 Quai du Commerce, 1080 Brussels, 1975, 16mm film, color, sound; 201 minutes [Akerman only on April 1st] 4:30PM Derek Jarman, Blue, 1993, 35mm film transferred to video, color, sound; 79 minutes Isaac Julien, The Attendant, 1993, 35mm film, color, sound; 10 minutes

FIRST FEATURES Part 1 February 17th and March 25th

11AM Cindy Sherman, Office Killer, 1997, 35mm film, color, sound; 82 minutes David Salle, Search and Destroy, 1995, 35mm film, color, sound; 90 minutes Robert Longo, Johnny Mnemonic, 1995, 35mm film, color, sound; 98 minutes

Part 2 February 18th and March 24th 11:30AM Larry Clark, Kids, 1995, 35mm film, color, sound; 91 minutes Julian Schnabel, Basquiat, 1996, 35mm film, color, sound; 106 minutes
DESTRICTED Special screening, Saturday evening, March 3

Schedule available on www.whitney.org. Schedule subject to change.

ABOUT THE WHITNEY MUSEUM The Whitney Museum of American Art is the leading advocate of 20th- and 21st-century American art. Founded in 1930, the Museum is regarded as the preeminent collection of American art and includes major works and materials from the estate of Edward Hopper, the largest public collection of works by Alexander Calder, Louise Nevelson, and Lucas Samaras, as well as significant works by Jasper Johns, Donald Judd, Agnes Martin, Bruce Nauman, Georgia O’Keeffe, Claes Oldenburg, Kiki Smith, and Andy Warhol, among other artists. With its history of exhibiting the most promising and influential American artists and provoking intense critical and public debate, the Whitney’s signature show, the Biennial, has become the most important survey of the state of contemporary art in America today.