

MOMA

- wants to preserve the archive
- to show the stamp it needs to be in a vitrine, closed
- some elements e.g. tissue guards are too fragile
- closed vitrine

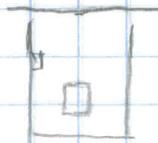

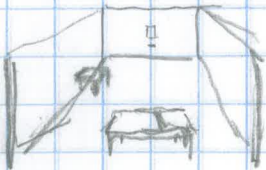

Whitney

- Regis's boss wants vitrine closed
- To sell a vitrine future owner needs to be encouraged not only to purchase but to be confident to make available for future use
- scanning isn't realistic due to time + energy needed
- When items stolen/destroyed there is some loss of object no matter what

So...

- What can Whitney team propose for a table vitrine that can be opened? A table w/ goes with the MOMA table?

or just fuck it. Vulnerable + out on the table, to be touched and handled. With its chair.